About me

Actually Phd student in Labour, Development and Innovation.

My previous studies allowed me to acquire skills in quantitative methods for economic forecasting and economic-financial analysis. I dedicated my final dissertation to the examination of the generation pay gap, a phenomenon studied in depth through a comparison between the empirical evidence of the sample data provided by the Bank of Italy surveys and the administrative data made available by INPS through the longitudinal LoSai sample. I'd like to deepen my knowledge in the field of macroeconomic forecasting and economic policy evaluation through advanced data analysis techniques.
